Buenos Aires, Argentina

I am a web developer with a solid background in frontend and backend technologies. My experience includes HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and React, which have allowed me to develop intuitive and effective user interfaces. In the backend area, i have knowledge of Node.js, Express, MongoDB, and SQL, enabling me to work on server-side development. I also have experience with Java and Spring.

Currently, I collaborate with startups to drive their growth by designing websites, landing pages, and setting up eCommerce platforms.

I am motivated by the opportunity to apply my skills in a professional environment, contribute ideas to the team, and continue growing as a developer.
